

New* COVID-19 toolkit

The news and circumstances surrounding coronavirus and COVID-19 is changing from day to day.

That's why we've looked to provide some guidance with a host of resources in our COVID-19 toolkit on how the virus may affect disabled people and people with compromised immune systems.

This advice is specifically about the coronavirus and your disabled employees, customers and clients.

Empathy for your disabled employees, customers and clients has been shown to bring benefits for all of your stakeholders.

Our toolkit contains various tools and resources that will assist, inform and guide you in these challenging times.

All resources can be downloaded for you to print, share or upload to your intranet.

In the toolkit you will find advice, useful factsheets, webinars and articles covering key topics, scenarios and research, including: signs someone working from home might be in physical or mental distress; supporting disabled employees working from home, or clarity about essential and non-essential shopping for disabled customers.

We cover:

- COVID-19 physical and mental health and wellbeing
- COVID-19 and your disabled employees
- COVID-19 and your disabled customers

The toolkit will be updated as and when needed so do make sure you look out for notifications when new resources are added.

We'll also look to host webinars each week on the topic, find them here.
